Jamaica Post Sponsors Staff Competing in Miss Universe Jamaica East Pageant 2025

Jamaica Post is proud to announce its sponsorship of Miss Dominic Harris, a contestant in this year's staging of the prestigious Miss Universe Jamaica East Pageant, which is being held under the theme 'Empowered to Empower.' Harris, who is employed as the Sales and Marketing Officer at the Postal Corporation of Jamaica Limited, will be representing the Klick 'N' Ship Express brand, a freight forwarding service designed for online shoppers in need of a fast and reliable solution to ship their packages to Jamaica.

Harris is among 29 other contestants vying for the coveted regional title on April 5, inside the auditorium at Wolmer's Boys' School. The winner will be guaranteed a place in the national coronation show which will include other regional winners and participants from across the island.

Harris describes herself as a passionate advocate for persons struggling with parental estrangement. Through her platform, she hopes to encourage healing, self-love and to inspire others to take up space while making a positive impact on society.

Jamaica Post uses this opportunity to wish Miss Dominic Harris every success and a truly rewarding experience on her journey to the crown.
